

HCL Connections

People Power Your Business, Connections Powers Your People.

The wide array of available collaborative solutions can be overwhelming, and often organizations have difficulty determining if these solutions offer any real benefit. With more people working remotely, it's more important than ever to provide collaborative tools that support today's challenging work environment.

Connections delivers a collaborative platform that keeps your employees connected and engaged. Connections helps create a personalized, well-designed, digital office with role-based content and tools to keep your teams focused on achieving business goals and objectives.

86%

of employees surveyed cite lack of collaboration or ineffective communications for workplace failures¹

No silos, just seamless collaboration.

Often, valuable time is wasted searching for files and information in a confusing array of disconnected tools. Organizations have discovered that legacy file-sharing and communication tools fail to truly deliver successful employee engagement. These applications typically end up as information silos, with redundant content, making knowledge discovery and information sharing even more difficult.

Connections offers a cohesive platform based on transparency, engagement, application interoperability and knowledge transfer. Connections focuses on how your employees actually work, not on tools and applications, and integrates seamlessly with existing applications to breakdown these silos.

A collaborative platform delivers more value than just applications alone.
