HCL Notes

Integrate social collaboration, messaging and business applications into a single workspace with HCL Notes

Overview

Notes and Domino are the client and server, respectively, of a collaborative client-server software-platform. Notes provides business collaboration functions, such as email calendars, to-do-lists, contacts management, teamrooms, discussion forums, file sharing, microblogging, instant messaging, blogs, and user directories. Notes can also be used with other Domino applications and databases.

Notes is a desktop workflow application, commonly used in corporate environments for email and to create discussion groups, websites, document libraries, custom applications and business workflows.

Notes is the email client software that gives teams access to email, calendar and contact management capabilities, and seamlessly integrates other collaboration tools and Domino business applications. With an improved user experience and enhancement of essential mail features, Notes 10 transforms your everyday email into an operational center and becomes even more essential to how your teams work.
